Get in quick — once they're gone, they're gone!

From Gym Members to City-Bay Teammates

For MU | FU Fitness, City-Bay is about much more than crossing the finish line - it's about bringing people together, building confidence and creating shared experiences.

Founded three years ago, MU | FU is a functional fitness gym built around creating a supportive community where members enjoy training and feel part of something bigger than just a gym. Strength training is at the heart of what they do, alongside conditioning, running and performance-based training.

City-Bay has become a huge part of that culture.

Three years ago, thanks to the support of Artesa Homes, MU | FU launched an initiative to bring their community together for the event, covering entry fees for 40 members and surprising them with their own running tanks. The response was incredible, growing to 70 members the following year thanks to the support of Yates Physiotherapy, Chaffey Bros Wine and Artesa Homes.

This year, MU | FU is continuing the tradition, once again covering entry fees for 70 members and bringing their community together to take on City-Bay as a team.

The initiative grew from their Sunday Run Club, where members began training and connecting outside the gym. Having a shared goal has helped keep everyone motivated, whether they're completing their first 12km or chasing a personal best.

"Having a shared goal completely changes the atmosphere. Every session has a purpose, and members encourage each other through training, celebrate the small wins and keep each other accountable."

For Nathan Ryles, Founder of MU | FU Fitness, the best part is seeing members who may not have known each other months earlier cross the finish line together, celebrate their achievements and enjoy the experience as a community.

His advice to other groups considering City-Bay? Simply get involved.

"The atmosphere on race day is something you really have to experience. Everyone is out there for their own reason, but everyone feels like they're part of something."

This year, the MU | FU team is looking forward to seeing 70 members wearing the same tank, crossing the finish line together and celebrating another incredible day as a community.
